

MATTHEW TEMPLE

EXECUTIVE LEADERSHIP COACH

Matthew Temple has over 15 years of experience coaching executives in many industries including consulting, entertainment & media, financial services, healthcare, manufacturing, retail, and technology. His previous work experience in industry and at business schools enables him to understand the cultures and dynamics of many industries and functions. He has coached senior executives including Chairmen, CEOs, COOs, CFOs, Presidents, Partners, GMs, Vice Presidents, and directors. In addition, he has coached emerging leaders in high potential and leadership development programs. His areas of focus include leadership, building and managing high performing teams, onboarding, networking, prioritization, communications, and executive presence. He has coached in Executive Education programs at Harvard Business School. Matthew earned an Organizational and Leadership Coaching Certificate and a Master of Science in Learning and Organizational Change from Northwestern University. He is certified in the Hogan Assessment, Voices 360, Korn Ferry Leadership Architect, MBTI, and Designing Your Life. He is proficient in the Birkman, CareerLeader, and Strong Campbell assessments.

In addition, Matthew is the Senior Director of Alumni Career & Professional Development for the Kellogg School of Management, where he manages a team of eight people who deliver career and executive coaching, workshops and webinars to 60,000 alumni globally. Matthew has presented and moderated hundreds of workshops and panels around the world and advised companies on recruiting strategies. As a Faculty Advisor in Global Initiatives in Management Program at Kellogg, Matthew leads classes of MBA students on academic programs in Asia and the Middle East. He serves on the Board of Directors for the Harvard Alumni Association and on the Advisory Boards for iRelaunch and Weil & Wein. He has been quoted in the Wall Street Journal, The Times of London, and the Chicago Tribune. He also worked as a Career Coach with Harvard Business School and the UCLA Anderson School of Management.

Previously, Matthew worked in Private Equity and M&A for Credit Suisse and in Corporate Finance for Deutsche Bank. He served as Director of International Business Development for Ask.com, where he helped establish, manage and staff joint ventures worth over US$200 million in Asia, Europe and Latin America. He started his career at Accenture. He has lived and worked in Hong Kong and London.

Matthew holds a BA in European History from Harvard University and an MBA in Finance, Marketing and Organizational Behavior from Kellogg School of Management. He's a diehard Red Sox fan, Jeopardy champion, and avid traveler (100+ countries).

CONTACT

matthew.temple@gmail.com

310-820-9903

Los Angeles/ Chicago